

Education fund intact

Unscathed in tug-of-war with flooding bill

By STEVEN J. HANSEN
Senior Reporter

Utah's education fund will likely "go unscathed" in a legislative tug-of-war to finance the 1985 flood control bill, said Gov. Norm Bangarter.

"It appears the budget will go unscathed, . . . and will remain intact," Bangarter said. The governor's response followed a reporter's question concerning the Utah House of Representative's version of the bill. The House agreed to finance flooding problems with the state's general fund.

Bangarter answered questions from Utah reporters in his monthly news conference sponsored by the University of Utah. The main topic surfacing in the conference was flooding vs. education. The subject is tying up the legislature's 45-day session while representatives are working to determine which program will get how much money.

While legislators wonder how much money will be allotted to alleviate flooding problems, the most important thing is how the state allocates the money it receives for either program, said Bangarter.

"The question is not how much money should be spent, but how we spend the money," he said. So far, the Senate has backed the governor's flood program while the House has hesitated. But Bangarter said he will not have "two arms," and will let the legislative process take its course.

Bangarter is optimistic that most of his bill will be passed in its original draft, and that his position with the House will be "to bring them down and visit with them gently about (his) program."

The governor also touched upon issues concerning Reagan's recommendations for sharp cuts in aid to state and local governments.

"Without question, a cutback in those programs (i.e., revenue sharing, elimination in grants for sewage plants and changes in mineral leasing laws) will cause some difficulty to state and local governments.

"However, we recognize there is a need to get the federal budget under control and in balance, and we cannot expect that to occur without some hardship coming in the state," he said.

Without lowering the federal deficit, problems created by an "uncontrolled budget" will present more difficulties than the country is currently experiencing, Bangarter said.

"If we are going to have a balanced budget, we are going to have to take some of the heat," Bangarter said. However, in the process of achieving that aim, the states must ensure that "there is equity and that the federal government is not picking on state and local governments as the only area to balance the budget," he said.

Lastly, the governor reiterated his stance on abortion and parental notification laws.

"Until children leave the custody of the parents, parents have certain responsibilities and rights" when it comes to whether a child is receiving birth control or abortions. "It is not the prerogative of society to make the decision of disbursement," he said.

Bangarter also expressed his personal feelings about abortion.

Reagan tested in conference

Farmers, budget among issues

Tax reform, freedom fighters, farmers and David Stockman were the main topics thrust at President Reagan, during a televised news conference Thursday.

Budget Director David Stockman has come under fire lately because of his statement questioning farmer's rights to government bailouts, but Reagan said, "we are going to do our utmost to help them."

Reagan said that he supports a short term program that will make available $650 million in loans and loan guarantees. He also added that his administration will be presenting Congress with legislation on Friday to help combat this present crisis.

"We want to put farmers back in the free market place, and get government out of the agriculture business," he said.

When questioned how this step would effect farmers who have counted on government subsidies Reagan said, "we won't pull the rug out on anyone instantly." He added that these programs never did work and have caused many of the problems that farmers face today.

Reagan started out the news conference by reading a prepared statement saying that in 1984 we experienced the strongest economic performance since 1961, with a growth of slightly under 7 percent. "We are now into the 27th month of our economic recovery," Reagan said. He added, "It is time we harness the energies of the free enterprise system."

Reagan also was pressed about his future policy concerning Nicaragua. He said his goal is to remove the Sandinista government in the sense of its present form, but would not seek to overthrow them.

"It is not a government chosen by the people . . . we believe we have an obligation to be of help where we can," Reagan said. He also said that he would press Congress to reinstate financial assistance to the freedom fighters in Nicaragua. Congress last year imposed a ban on covert aid to the Nicaraguan freedom fighters.

Reagan said that revenue neutrality is a possibility if Congress cuts out many of the tax loopholes that many businesses now enjoy. This legislation would hinder those businesses who are now aided by the present system. "Everyone will be paying their fair share," he said.

He also reinstated his opposition to any tax increases saying, "that issue was debated and decided on Nov. 6. We intend to proceed with the mandate," this in reference to his landslide election.

Reagan also renewed his calls for Congress to pass tax overhaul legislation this year and to enact his program of spending cuts.

He has asked Congress to pass nearly $50 billion in spending cuts in his 1986 fiscal year budget, including the controversial cuts in student aid.

The "Star Wars" defense plan was also a topic of concern. Reagan said that it is his intention to use this to rid the world of nuclear threat, and not to boost America's nuclear supremacy.

"We believe if the Soviets are sincere they will stay at the table," Reagan said when asked about the present arms reduction talks. He also added that his administration is sure that the Soviets have violated some of the arm restrictions imposed in the SALT II talks, and that they would face a decision soon as to whether they too will violate the agreement.

When asked if devaluing the dollar was something he would consider to help domestic trade against foreign competition Reagan said this would put us in "an inflation spiral." "The problem is that our trading partners have not caught up to us in economic recovery."

Candidates may run alone in ASBYU race

By LAURA SAVINI
Universe Staff Writer

Four of the vice presidential candidates in the ASBYU elections may run a race without any competition, literally.

Only one person is running for each of the following offices: Social Organizations, Student Community Services and Women's, said Randy Neal, elections committee chairman.

"There are only 35 candidates, total, involved in this year's election," he said. "That number is down from last year when 45 ran."

"The lack of involvement is possibly due to the rechartering. The students aren't quite sure what is going on," said Neal.

"My concern is that the student body at large doesn't realize how few people are running. If they knew, maybe they would do something about it," said Jean Taylor, administrative adviser for ASBYU.

Neal said any students still interested in running for any of the offices have one last chance. They must contact him in 118 KMB before Tuesday to sign up.

"Maybe the students are intimidated about the new rules that will be instituted in ASBYU. Maybe they think the system is shaky. But they should not feel this way. The changes won't be made this year. The administration has assured them that they would be in office all year. The new officers will help to decide what changes will be made," said Neal.

"I think the reason for the apathy in the elections has a direct relationship to the way in which students perceive ASBYU. Right now it's a mess and seems disorganized," said Cindy Stephens, a senior from Millani, Hawaii, majoring in advertising.

"The attitude in general about ASBYU is that it has lost its credibility. With so many people resigning, the offices have lost some of their importance," said Mark Lee, a junior from Westington Springs, S.D., majoring in electrical engineering.

"If students know these candidates are running unopposed, maybe they will make the decision to run if they have been indecisive up to this point," said David Burnham, a senior from Santa Ana, Calif., majoring in psychology.

"Just because they are running unopposed doesn't mean they are unqualified. If they have made the effort to petition and qualify to run that shows they have interest."

"If someone just decides to jump in now because they think they can win, it doesn't mean they are qualified. They didn't show the foresight," said Burnham.

Neal said eight teams are running for the presidential office and two to three candidates are running for each of the remaining four vice presidential offices.

Britain will refuse to yield to New Zealand demand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain will follow America's refusal to yield to New Zealand's demand to know whether ships entering its ports are equipped with nuclear weapons, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher warned Thursday.

"I shall be very disappointed if Royal Navy ships cannot visit New Zealand," she said at a press conference.

Thatcher's emphatic statement appeared designed to help the Reagan administration quell any notion other countries may have to fall in step behind New Zealand Prime Minister David Lange.

"All our ships are seconded (assigned) to NATO," she said. "At any moment they might have to take up NATO positions, and therefore they must carry whatever is appropriate to their NATO task."

"And I have no intention whatsoever of revealing whether or not a nuclear armament is part of their weapons on any particular ship," she said.

Lange's action several weeks ago has led the United States to cancel several joint military exercises and other activities with New Zealand.

Thatcher, whose departure from Washington was delayed by bad weather in Britain, also said she had no "ready-made answers" to the economic problems caused by the strong U.S. dollar.

The British pound, along with other Western European currencies, has been driven to record lows against the surging American dollar. Thatcher's Conservative Party has blamed America's $200 billion deficit for siphoning capital from around the world, weakening other currencies and driving up interest rates abroad.

On another topic, the prime minister suggested the United States spend more time talking to Soviet leaders to increase understanding that could aid in the quest for arms control agreements.

"I found — particularly in my talks with congressmen — a very, very strong interest in making a greater effort at dialogue with the Russians and getting to understand their viewpoint better," she said.

"I do think that if we are to get better results in arms control talks, we have to have more dialogue and more understanding of one another," Thatcher said.

She refrained from directly criticizing the relative lack of contact with Soviet leaders that characterized Reagan's first term, just as she refrained during the entire visit from making any overt criticisms of the administration with which she is staunchly allied.

The prime minister refused to specify the advice she gave Reagan and his top arms control aides during an extensive White House meeting Wednesday discussing U.S. strategy in the upcoming nuclear arms talks with the Soviet Union in Geneva on March 12.

Flooding suit nears end; compromise still muddy

By MARK BRADLEY

The end is near in a year-long suit between Utah Lake land owners and Salt Lake County water users.

Property owners in the Utah Lake area have had years of problems with flooding because of drainage procedures along the Jordan River, said Phil Edwards, a member of the Utah Lake Land Owners Association.

A law suit was filed Sept. 15, 1983 in Salt Lake County Court, Provo City, and Utah County for two reasons. They hoped the question of the compromise level of Utah Lake could be resolved and that the Jordan River would be dredged, said Edwards. The suit also included a $225 million request to compensate land owners for flooding damages.

Utah and Salt Lake Counties are working on a compromise that would be beneficial to Utah Lake land owners and the Salt Lake County water users, Edwards said.

The counties are agreeable to the compromise between the land owners and the water users, and the settlement should be beneficial to everyone," he said.

The agreement will be made within the next week, and it is still unclear what kind of a settlement will take place, said Edwards.

"The most important part of the settlement will be to dredge the Jordan River," he said. The cost to dredge the river is estimated to be more than $13 million.

"We are waiting now to see if the Utah Legislature will appropriate funds to dredge the Jordan River," said attorney Robert Fillierup, representing the land owners.

Stockman feels faint; admits self to hospital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Budget Director David Stockman was hospitalized early Thursday after he complained of feeling faint at a party, a hospital official said.

Stockman, 38, was listed in stable condition at Georgetown University Hospital, after he entered the emergency room accompanied by his wife, hospital spokeswoman Claudia Dominick said.

"Mr. Stockman came in at 1 a.m. and he was complaining of feeling faint," Dominick said. "He was admitted to the hospital and is in stable condition."

19 Salvadorans dead following rebel attacks

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP)—Leftist guerrillas fired rocket-propelled grenades at a truck filled with about 40 policemen in San Salvador, reportedly killing at least six officers.

Also on Wednesday, rebels ambushed an army truck 40 miles away, and eight soldiers were killed, a military source said. He said five guerrillas were killed following a gun battle.

The deaths were the latest in the five-year civil war that has claimed the lives of an estimated 59,000 people, most of them civilians, according to counts kept by church and human rights groups.

The attack in the capital occurred shortly after sunset near the military hospital, a few blocks from the downtown area, said a police spokesman who spoke on condition of anonymity for security reasons.

Witnesses and some survivors reported that at least six policemen were killed and an undetermined number were wounded when rebels launched two rocket-propelled grenades at a truck carrying about 40 officers.

USSR vows to intensify arms race against U.S.

MOSCOW (AP)—The Kremlin said Thursday that if the United States develops the Star Wars system it will intensify the arms race because the Soviet Union would be forced to build weapons powerful enough to defeat it.

"Does the United States think the Soviet Union will sit idle, awaiting the results of the U.S. 'research'?" Kremlin spokesman Leonid Zamyatin said. "Faced with such dangerous plans, the Soviet Union will do all in its power to prevent a U.S. superiority over itself."

Tass also quoted Andrei Kokoshin, deputy director of a think tank called the U.S.A.-Canada Institute, as saying international scientists fear a new arms race if the United States develops space weapons.

"Creation of space armaments, including anti-missile weapons, will inevitably lead to appearance of opposing systems, and that will be followed by the appearance of other weapons to deal with those systems."

Premier Nikolai A. Tikhonov said in a speech Thursday that the Soviet Union seeks general disarmament, but "we are not utopians. As long as war danger exists . . . the Soviet Union will never allow anyone to have military advantage over it."

Thousands lose homes during Philippine fire

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—The homes of about 5,000 families burned, and two children were killed in a three-hour fire in Catbalogan on the island of Samar southeast of Manila, the Philippine News Agency reported Thursday.

The agency said the fire was thought to have been caused by children playing with matches while their parents were away Wednesday.

The agency said two children, apparently not the ones who were playing with the matches, died in the fire which razed a wide area of Catbalogan, 330 miles southeast of Manila, on Wednesday.

The city includes mostly one- and two-story buildings made of wood and concrete. The agency said the fire started in a shanty and spread through a densely populated residential and commercial district.

Fire victims were temporarily housed in public school buildings, military barracks and tents.

1984 economic growth gives '85 strong boost

WASHINGTON (AP)—The economy grew at a robust 4.9 percent rate in the final three months of the year, far better than originally thought, the government said Thursday.

Analysts reviewing the strong rebound in the gross national product, the broadest measure of the nation's economic health, said it would provide the springboard needed to ensure good growth in the first half of 1985.

However, some economists expressed pessimism about prospects in the last half of the year. The Commerce Department report represented a sharp revision from the initial estimate of growth at a more modest 2.8 percent rate made in December before the final quarter had ended.

That projection was revised to a stronger 3.9 percent last month and now upped again to 4.9 percent. The latest revision left growth for all of 1984 at a sizzling 6.9 percent, the best performance in more than three decades.

Despite the rapid growth, inflation remained at low levels, the new report showed. As measured by a gauge tied to the GNP, inflation rose at a rate of 3.8 percent in 1984, the same as 1983.

PETER VAN DE GRAAFF, ROBIN FARNSELEY and MARCUS ARBIZU (top hat) star in "The Abduction from the Seraglio"

Two Y opera productions to be Mozart 'celebration'

By AMBER BOYLE
Universe Staff Writer

A celebration of Mozart, rekindled by the recent Broadway and Hollywood productions of "Amadeus," will take place at BYU with two Mozart operas — "The Marriage of Figaro" and "The Abduction from the Seraglio."

The productions, sponsored by the Music Department, will be on stage in the Neltke Theater, HFAC.

"The Abduction from the Seraglio" will play today, Tuesday and Thursday at 8 p.m. with a matinee March 2 at 4 p.m.

"The Marriage of Figaro" will run Saturday, Wednesday and March 1 and 2 at 8 p.m.

"My selection of the operas had to do with the fact that 'Amadeus' would be playing," said Clayne Robison, director of the opera program at BYU.

"Because the play 'Amadeus' is a wonderful play, it rekindled the people's imagination and Hollywood picked up on it with the production of a movie," Robison said.

"It's the masterpiece of the whole Mozart literature. It has a transcendent quality; yet the characters are real. It is exciting and exulting."

As the story begins, a count publicly renounces his aristocratic right to sleep with a female servant the night before her wedding. Yet, he would like her consent.

His attitude becomes embarrassing to all concerned and makes his original renunciation seem foolish.

As the opera progresses the count is eventually brought through a repentance and redemption process.

"The Abduction from the Seraglio" is a little "classier," said Robison.

This particular opera is an earlier Mozart effort.

"Mozart was trying to show off as to how flashy he could be," said Robison. "It has often been accused of having too many notes."

"But as is customary in contemporary performances of the opera, we shall sufficiently cut and rearrange it to eliminate this accusation," he said.

"The Marriage of Figaro," however, is considered to be more integrated and more sophisticated with more ensembles included throughout the opera.

"It is more complex and more elaborate than 'The Abduction,'" said Robison. "In 'The Marriage of Figaro,' Mozart was actually trying to say something about people. It has a definite purpose."

"The Marriage of Figaro" was much more musical," explained Robison.

"The Marriage of Figaro" is about an Englishman whose fiancée is shipwrecked and sold by pirates to a Turkish Pasha.

The plot thickens with the Englishman's efforts to abduct her from the Pasha.

"The Abduction from the Seraglio" was originally performed in German. "The Marriage of Figaro" was first performed in Italian. BYU will perform both productions in English.

Robison said that opera is a genre within itself and is often misunderstood.

Huey Lewis worried about new LP

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — His last gold album, "Sports," hangs in his bathroom, and rock singer Huey Lewis isn't sure when another will join it.

"It's a little bit scary. I'm a little apprehensive," said Lewis. "We'll probably go back in the studio in March or April. What's going to be on the next record? I wish I knew."

"Sports" was one of 1984's biggest albums, selling more than 5 million copies and spawning four Top 10 singles for Huey Lewis and The News: "Heart and Soul," "I Want a New Drug," "If This Is It" and "The Heart of Rock & Roll."

"What happened with that record is something you can't account for, and that's momentum. It just built up and it just hasn't stopped," said Lewis, 34, on a visit to Tempe for a sold-out concert as the 14-month "Sports Tour '84" wound down.

While Lewis and The News dream up their encore album, a fifth single "Bad Is Bad" climbs the charts. A video for it was shot in January in the band's stomping grounds of Mill Valley, Calif.

"Making records and videos is about patience and perfection and carefulness, whereas playing live is about improvisation," he said. "That's really the thrill for me. That's what rock 'n' roll is really all about. I don't think anything will ever take the place of a live gig."

Born Hugh Anthony Croeg III in New York, Lewis hitchhiked across the United States and Europe after high school with a knapsack and a harmonica before settling in San Francisco in the late 1970s.

FLICK FLACK

The Daily Universe, under the title of "Flick Flack," publishes synopses of movies shown in local theaters and on campus. Movie listed are not necessarily endorsed by The Daily Universe.

AMADEUS (PG) — Winner of several Academy Award nominations about the supposed rivalry between composers Mozart and Salieri, played by Tom Hanks and F. Murray Abraham. (profanity, vulgar)

MICKI & MAUDE (PG-13) — Daffy Moore stars as Rob, who is happily married to Micki, a lawyer. Rob's having an affair with Maude, a cellist. Micki wants a career; Maude wants to be a father. Maude finds out she is pregnant and Rob marries her. But he soon learns that Micki is pregnant also. Rob is one man with two wives — expecting two babies. (profanity, nudity)

PASSAGE TO INDIA (PG) — David Lean's epic look at a clash of two cultures in India. The story is slow and deliberate, but vivid with good photography and performances. (violence)

TURK 182 (PG-13) — Timothy Hutton stars as a young crusader fighting city hall on his brother's behalf (violence, profanity).

SOMEWHERE IN TIME (V) — Christopher Reeve and Jane Seymour star as time-crossed lovers in this unusual and very mushy romance. Reeves is a young, wealthy, and Seymour is an old woman who approaches Reeves early in the movie, gives him a watch, and begs him to come back to her. Reeves becomes obsessed with traveling back in time to find her. This movie is a favorite with eodds on campus, which is why it is playing on Preference.

THE PROMISE (V) — Paired as a double feature with "Somewhere in Time" especially for Preference weekend. "The Promise" is the story of two young lovers who promise never to say goodbye to each other. On the way to get married, a terrible car crash destroys the young woman's face. A meddling would-be mother-in-law, who was against the marriage to begin with, steps in and arranges for reconstructive surgery — on the condition that the girl never sees her son again. How they find each other again makes an interesting if slightly unbelievable story. Great movie for hopeless romantics.

MOTHELRIDE (V) — The desperate search for a missing friend and the promise of gold send Maconie and Bassinger into the rugged wilderness of Northern British Columbia. The couple meet an old prospector who appears to know more about their missing friend and the motherhood than he is willing to admit.

Cougars face tough test

Freshmen, rebounding could be story of Irish game

BYU's Scott Sinek blocks John Dudley's shot in the CSU game last week. Saturday the Cougars face Notre Dame in a non-conference clash.

By TROY STEINER
Sports Editor

When the final buzzer sounds on Saturday afternoon the difference in the BYU-Notre Dame basketball game will most likely have something to do with rebounding and the play of each team's freshmen athletes.

The Irish sport a strong inside game and one of the nation's top point guards. Not many freshmen can even make a division-I varsity basketball team let alone have quite as big an impact on a squad as Notre Dame's David Rivers.

Rivers has changed the Irish for the better. Not only has he, virtually single-handedly, changed the deliberate Irish offense of the past into the running transition game, but he is also making a difference in the statistics.

Rivers is averaging 14.6 points per game and has logged 100 assists and 50 steals in Notre Dame's 23 games so far this season.

Rivers isn't the only factor that makes Notre Dame tough though. Rebounding is the Irish's strong suit. Kent Barlow who leads the Irish in two categories, scoring (16 ppg) and rebounding (6.9 per game), is the anchor of a powerful inside game.

The Irish are so strong on the boards they rank third in the nation in rebound margin. They average eight more rebounds a game than their opponents. The only teams ahead of N.D. are Iowa and Georgetown. Because of this statistic it would seem the Cougars are in for a real thumping, especially since rebounding has been their nemesis most of the year.

Sure it would appear the Irish have the edge with their inside strength and Rivers, but don't count BYU out.

Rivers won't be the only freshman who could have a large impact on the game. The Cougars have their own who could make a difference. Of late it has been the play of BYU's freshman swingman Andy Toolson that has helped the Cougars achieve sole possession of third place in the WAC.

But Toolson isn't the only BYU freshman who will be a factor in the game. Look at the entire Cougar roster and there are several freshmen who could be dominating factors. The Cougars need a strong performance from Alan Pollard, another freshman, and Jeff Chalmers, also a first year collegiate hoopster.

Those youngsters won't be the only story of the contest if BYU senior Tim Saarelainen has his way. Saarelainen has been in a slump the last two games, but he still leads the WAC in scoring with a 23.3 average.

He has, without a doubt, been the leader of the BYU team this year. His late game heroics are one reason why the Cougars have a 15-10 record — without him it could be considerably worse.

Another senior Cougar who could be a factor, but probably won't, is guard Scott Sinek. Sinek suffered a dislocated knee cap in the Air Force game and is questionable.

Marty Perry, the other Cougar guard, will probably have to take up the slack along with whoever plays for Sinek, either Chris Nikchevich, Richie Webb or Toolson.

On paper the Irish have the definite advantage, but if Saarelainen gets his shooting going and another Cougar also contributes it could go BYU's way.

This year's game will be televised live on KUTV (channel 2) beginning at 12 p.m. MST, but KBYU-TV will broadcast it later that night at 7:30.

Utes outswim Cougars; splash to 65-48 victory

By MARK FLETCHER
Universe Sports Writer

It was a night of could have beens and almosts. It could have been and almost was a great night for the BYU men's swim team, but the University of Utah turned out to be the winners in the end.

Thursday night the Cougars lost to the Utes 65-48 in the Richards Building pool before 250 fans. The Cougars' loss brings their dual meet record down to 7-2 with both losses coming at the hands of the powerful Utes.

"The way both teams swam tonight we could have swam with almost anyone in the nation," said BYU swim coach Tim Powers. "The Utes swam exceptionally well, they have great talent."

The Cougars started the meet out on a record-breaking pace with a win in the 400-yard medley relay. The team of David Lim, Ted Paulsen, Steve Doman, and Ron Menezes swam a time of 3:07.21, the best time in the Western Athletic Conference this year. The win gave the Cougars a 7-0 lead.

"The Utes came blazing right back taking first and second place in the next two events. Ute standout Pat Hayes swam an easy 1:40.63 in the 200-yard freestyle for the first of his three wins of the evening.

In the 50-yard freestyle sprint the first of two disqualifications occurred leaving the Utes without their lead swimmer in the event. The Cougars took advantage of the break and went one, two, three in the event with Menezes leading the way with a time of 21.04.

The next disqualification proved to be a turning point in the meet. The two top swimmers for the Cougars and the Utes, Menezes and Hayes were pitted against each other in the 100-yard freestyle sprint. This time it was Menezes who was disqualified leaving Hayes with an uncontested win in the event giving the Utes a possible extra six point advantage. The meet had been tied up to that point.

It was a disappointment to the team, said Powers. "It took us a little while to rally back."

One event in which the Cougars felt no competition was the diving. Taking first, second and third on both the one and the two-meter boards the Cougars dominated the Utes 16-2.

"We wanted this meet to be a springboard to the WAC championships," said Powers. "Now we are just looking forward to sunny Hawaii."

Netters to battle tough Utah team

By GORDON TREADWAY
Universe Sports Writer

The BYU men's tennis team plays one of its biggest matches of the year today at 5 p.m. when it takes on in-state rival Utah at the BYU Indoor Courts.

Two Cougars, Andy Noorda and Rich Bohne, have been struggling with injuries recently but appear to be on the mend. Noorda has had a bad ankle but feels much better according to BYU coach Larry Hall, and Bohne is recovering from a sore shoulder that has kept him from serving during practice this week.

The match with Utah is one of BYU's biggest of the year and, according to Hall, the Cougars have a good shot at beating the Utes even though Utah sports one of its strongest teams ever.

"We have been playing well lately and we're an experienced team," said Hall. "We were down last week, but we've been playing good doubles recently and have had some good practices this week."

"Utah is as strong as they have ever been," Hall continued. "There are two reasons: one, they have better depth than they have ever had, and two, they have three very good doubles teams. Plus they have four outstanding singles players."

Utah comes in with a 4-4 dual meet record, but its record isn't a true indication of how strong the Utes really are, said Hall.

"Their record is very deceiving," he said. "You see 4-4 and say to yourself, 'Four teams have beaten them.' But they've lost to teams like USC and Georgia. It's not like they are really losses."

Hall is anxious to see if the poor play that plagued the Cougars last week in San Diego is still around or if they have returned to the form that saw them play so well early in the season when they upset No. 19 Cal-Berkeley.

"I'm a little apprehensive to find out if we're still playing well," he said. "We practiced well all week long, but you just don't know how you'll play until you get out there."

Hall will look to Rob Fought and Robert Garbell to continue their improved play as the Cougars hope to improve their 6-2 overall record.

Tigers prepare for 2nd title

(AP) — Sparky Anderson traditionally operates one of the toughest spring training camps in baseball. It will be made even tougher this year by one fact: The Detroit Tigers are defending their World Series title.

Anderson, who has said, "We'll go to spring training with the idea of repeating."

The Tigers, along with the Minnesota Twins, were the first teams to officially open camp to pitchers, catchers, rookies, players recovering from injuries and any others who volunteer for a little early work. The Tigers train at Lakeland, Fla., the Twins at Orlando.

Cougar lacrosse team heads south to Arizona

Plagued by a shortage of practice facilities that has lowered morale and relegated practices to the snow-covered Smith Fieldhouse tennis courts, the BYU lacrosse team travels to Arizona today for two important WCLL matches.

Facing off against Arizona State and Arizona, the weekend road trip promises to be the most important one of the season for the Cougars, said BYU coach Scott Wylie. "If we lose either one it could hurt our chances of making the WCLL tournament."

BYU's hopes of beating the Arizona schools rest in its ability to contain their powerful offenses, Wylie said. "Defense will be important in Arizona, especially the play of our two freshman defensemen, Charlie Freedman and Klane Murphy."

Y track team out to win WAC crown

By FRANK MONTROYA, JR.
Universe Sports Writer

Runner-up last year to the University of Texas at El Paso, the BYU track team will be in Albuquerque today and Saturday in hopes of unseating the reigning conference champions at the WAC Indoor Track and Field Championships.

Led by BYU All-American Ed Eyestone, the Cougars hope to use their strengths in the distance and weight events to win the WAC crown. Under-scoring this strategy was the naming of five distance runners to the 25-man team and the addition of weightman Mikko Valimaki to the roster.

Valimaki, a junior from Kouvola, Finland, hasn't competed in a meet since being sidelined by knee surgery early in the season. He will participate in the WAC meet, however, because Robison feels he can help the team by placing in the 35-pound weight throw. "We really think he can score for us."

Robison is also looking for good performances from Cougar weightmen Soren Tallhem in the shot put and Lars Sundin in the shot put and 35-pound weight. Tallhem is the defending WAC champion in his event.

In the distance events, NCAA qualifiers Eyestone and Lin Whatcott will set the pace for BYU's championship quest. Eyestone, who has also qualified for the U.S. team that will participate in the World Cross Country Championships, will anchor the five-man distance contingent by competing in the mile, two-mile and distance medley. He will be joined in his running efforts by Lin Whatcott, who qualified for the NCAA meet last week in San Diego, David O'Hara, Steve Chipman and Doug Stutz.

Not all of BYU's strengths, however, are restricted to the distance and weight events. Pole vaulter John Bestor is the defending WAC champion in his specialty.

This weekend in New Mexico he will be joined by fellow vaulter Malcolm Hunsaker. "We have a real good chance of winning the pole vault," said Robison. "Both vaulters have been jumping consistently at 16-6."

Robison said he also feels good about the Cougars chances in the middle distances. Wes Ashford, Phil Girsberger, Russ Muir and Robert Nelson will compete for BYU in these events.

In the sprints, BYU will be represented by Walter Hatch, Peter Milanzi and Kenny Henderson. Henderson is a freshman from Oakland and is considered by his coaches to be one of the best talents in WAC track.

At the championships, he will run the 60-yard dash. After last week's BYU Indoor Invitational he was only eight-hundredths of second from qualifying for the NCAA's in that event.

BYU will be represented in the high jump by Cory Swenson and Eric Magelby. Swenson has led the Cougars in this event all year with a personal best of 6-10.

In the triple and long jumps, Joe Smith and Todd Sanders will compete for the Cougars.

Overall, the Cougars go to the meet with a strong team. For them to win, however, everything must fall into place, Robison said.

Washington free on bond

ATLANTA (AP) — Claudell Washington, a mainstay in the Atlanta Braves outfield for the past four seasons and a National League All-Star in 1984, was free on bond Wednesday after being arrested on suspicion of possessing cocaine in California.

Braves officials said they were shocked by the arrest, but had not been in contact with Washington, who had undergone treatment for drug dependency after the 1983 season.

"We're all flabbergasted here," assistant vice president Paul Snyder said.

Collinsworth dumped by Tampa Bay Bandits

CINCINNATI (AP) — Chris Collinsworth says he is returning to Tampa, Fla., his hopes dashed for resolving a quick contract with the Cincinnati Bengals of the NFL after the USFL declared his multi-million contract void.

Collinsworth said no further negotiations were scheduled.

"There's no party planned for tonight," Collinsworth said, emerging from a three-hour meeting with Mike Brown, Bengals assistant general manager.

Brown, however, said he would probably speak today with Richard Bennett, Collinsworth's agent. "We both explained our positions," said Brown.

Retail Fortnight coming up

By TOD SANDERS
Senior Reporter

Retail Fortnight, sponsored by the Skaggs Institute of Retail Management, is coming to BYU starting Feb. 25 and continuing through March 8.

According to Doyle E. Robison, director of the institute, there will be 47 executives from 22 of the most prominent retail stores in the country, including Mervyn's, Nordstroms and the May Company.

"The 22 stores coming to Retail Fortnight are the most ever to come to campus at any one time," Robison said.

He said 18 of the executives coming to Retail Fortnight are BYU alumni.

"The BYU graduates who come through our program are making a very good impression," Robison said. "The alumni coming back for the fortnight are sent back by their companies to get more BYU graduates."

"The students who come through our program are in great demand because companies know they want to learn," he said. "Companies also like the maturity and work ethic of the people who come through our program."

Robison said all the companies coming to the fortnight will be interviewing students, with all but two of them intending to recruit employees.

"The executives coming will give students a good idea about prospective jobs, and they will help them understand more about their stores," he said.

Another part of the fortnight will include panel discussions, where various executives will visit 39 or 40 classes on campus. In addition, the store representatives will conduct orientations designed to provide information about their stores and potential employment opportunities.

According to Robison, students do not have to be members of the institute to participate in the Retail Fortnight, but those who go through the institute's program are well prepared to go to work for retail companies.

"After students gain admission into the program, we provide them with training in the retail field," he said.

Part of the training includes helping students to understand what retailing is all about, according to Robison.

"Retailing is not for everybody," he said. "We try and help people to understand themselves and to open some doors for them."

Other aspects of the training include work experience and gaining an understanding of the differences in the various retailing stores. In addition, practical instruction of things such as how to interview and dress for success are also taught.

The main thrust of the institute's training is a paid internship that all members of the institute must complete, either in the summer or as an entry-level position.

"The internship is a junior executive position, helping a buyer, doing promotions or in personnel or whatever the case may be," Robison said. "It really helps to accelerate a student's progress because part of their assignment is to meet the executives of the company."

Robison said most people are misinformed about what retailers really do.

"People think of retailers as just being clerks in a store. We are talking about people being executives."

Robison said there are about 100 students currently enrolled in the institute.

Entrance into the program is open to students in a variety of majors, but students must go through a screening process that includes aptitude tests, an interview with Robison and a formal application for membership in the institute.

Flowers bring an early spring to Bean Museum

Spring has come early to the Monte L. Bean Life Science Museum.

For the second year in a row, the museum has put in a display of flowers on the north end of the main floor, creating the color and feeling of spring.

According to Douglas Cox, assistant museum director, 565 bulbs were donated last fall by Brown Bulb Ranch of Seattle, Wash. Among them are hyacinths, daffodils and tulips.

Frank Williams of BYU's Agronomy and Horticulture Department, along with some of his students, nurtured the bulbs in greenhouses during December.

Each bulb had to be "fooled" by "chilling" it to make the bulb think it was winter. Williams placed each bulb in a pot at 50 degrees so that it would establish roots. Then he placed the pots in a cooler at 40 degrees for two weeks, he said.

After "chilling" the bulbs, they were brought out of the cooler and nurtured under temperatures of 50 degrees.

"When the bulbs had sprouted and risen to 2 1/2 inches, we would bring them out into the greenhouses and grow them under warmer temperatures," Williams said. "Two to four weeks later when the plants produced flowers they were moved over to the museum."

Last year Williams did not really help with the museum's flower project except for informing the people in charge as to the procedure for growing the flowers.

This year he thought it would be good experience if some of his students and the Agronomy and Horticulture Club could raise the flowers, he said.

The club, which is made-up of students in the Agronomy and Horticulture Department, raises plants for resale to the public.

No tokens, no clothes, no ride aboard train

NEW YORK (AP) — The unidentified man kept on going, walking past a violinist playing for donations and stopping to perform a little dance before boarding the Manhattan train.

"He just went dancing by to the music," said violinist James Grosbeck, 31, who aided him then changed his selection from Bach to Tchaikovsky because it was better for dancing.

After doing the dance, the man boarded the first train into the station and took a seat, but Sampayo called for the train's conductor to keep the train there, and Transit Police came quickly to place the man in custody.

Lt. Ron Roland said the man was taken to Metropolitan Hospital for observation.

Russian officials contro Soviet citizens' knowledge

By GLORIA PEREZ
Senior Reporter

News of the outside world is attained through a controlled press, by talking to outsiders, or by traveling overseas, which is something only the more trusted and privileged are allowed to do.

To the people of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, America is a country "riddled with violence where the poor and needy are ignored, and the country is controlled by armed merchants who cut back on the funds of the poor and needy. It is a country seeking military superiority over the Soviet Union," said Eric Anthony Jones, a political science professor at BYU.

Jones has traveled to the Soviet Union twice for a month at a time, in 1976 as a tourist, and in 1981 to do graduate research for a report for the U.S. Congress on Soviet energy.

Jones said the Soviets have a historical suspicion of foreigners. "A lot of times this is flamed up by their government due to the policy at the time. This fear of strangers is reinforced due to their loss of lives during World War II."

The controlled press uses its pages to feed negative news and information to the people pertaining to America. The people can sometimes get news from outside via Radio Free Europe or Voice of America, but these broadcasts are at times jammed, Jones said. The Soviet press is the main source of information.

"They (Soviet people) are always taught to differentiate between the American people and the American government," he said. The government is evil, and individuals in power provoke the arms race. "Right now they're being told we killed off thousands of people with chemical warfare experiments in South America," he said.

In his book "The Russians," Hedrick Smith points out how the standard of living of the average Soviet family is inferior to that of the average American family. Often two or more families share an apartment containing only the bare necessities. If one wants a washing machine or refrigerator, it could be months before the item is delivered. Even the top ranking officials live under conditions not much better than those experienced by the average middle class American family.

Jones agrees with Smith. "You go over there and they try to buy everything you have," Jones said. The top officials live in apartments. They like millionaires but actually are not. "The top officials have a lot of privileges not officially included in their salary."

Jones said, "A large percentage of their gross national product is put into military spending, and their standard of living suffers because of that. They (citizens) don't know the size of their defense budget, or that other nations feel threatened by the Soviet Union," he explained.

The American people know how much money goes to national defense by reading newspapers and their taxes. This is not the case in the Soviet Union. The Soviet citizen's income is previously adjusted before pay to give money to the military program.

Unlike Americans, who are so concerned with the threat of nuclear war, the Soviet people are not informed enough to realize potential dangers or become well acquainted with the issues. "They hear how Reagan is heavily into producing weapons for the United States, pouring money into an unprovoked arms race and ignoring social needs in the country," Jones said. "In the United States we're more aware of different sides of the argument."

What is emphasized by the Soviet press is all the evils, crime and violence in America. To convince their athletes not to participate in the '84 Olympics, the press printed all the news on the San Ysidro, Calif., massacre (the murders at the McDonalds Restaurant). "They used this to convince their people it wasn't safe for them to come over here," he said.

While Soviet people are aware of free elections in America, the press distorts this also, Jones said. The political parties in the United States are both referred to as the "bourgeois" party. Candidates, according to Soviet perception, need millions of dollars to get their message through the mass media and to the people. Jones said last year's election was widely covered by the Soviet press. The press saw Mondale as a positive figure due to their dislike of Reagan. "They saw Mondale as the lesser of two evils."

Vatican union considering first-ever strike for lay workers

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A union leader said Thursday that lay Vatican employees will go on their first strike ever next week, an action expected to close museums and shut down the Holy See's newspaper and radio station.

Mariano Cerullo, president of the Association of Lay Vatican Employees, said in an interview that the strike was called because of the Vatican's failure to agree to a union proposal put forward last October to standardize pay scales and job classifications.

Post office cuts down on service charges

Even though the post office recently raised postal rates by two cents, it is cutting down charges in other areas of its service.

Postal customers who move out of the Provo area with zip codes 84601, 84602, 84603 and 84604 will no longer have to pay a forwarding fee to have their magazines, newspapers and other second-class mail forwarded, according to Postmaster Blaine W. Hess.

This new policy went into effect on Feb. 17. "All second-class items will be forwarded nationwide, without charge for 60 days from the date a change-of-address order is effective,"

Hess said.

Previous policy forwarded all second-class mail for 90 days, but the customer had to pay for the service when the publication was sent beyond a local delivery area, he said.

Other changes include: elimination of a forwarding fee on first-class priority mail parcels when the postage has been paid; return of post and postal cards to senders with address correction without additional charge; and elimination of address correction fees to return a mail piece unless the correction is provided as a separate notice.

Washington medal awarded to BYU Alumni Association

The Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge has awarded the BYU Alumni Association the 1984 George Washington Honor Medal for excellence in programs.

Robert W. Miller, Freedoms Foundation president, said the university is being recognized because of the ELWC Memorial Lounge which honors BYU students who gave their lives for their country.

Last year, the BYU Alumni Association added new plaques to the Memorial Lounge listing the names of those who died in the Korean and Vietnam Wars.
